All Industrial Shares Show Advancing Tendency.

Sugar Is a Favorite, Gaining 6 1-2 Per Cent. on the Week-Indianapolis Grain Market Dull.

At New York, Saturday, money on call was easy at 1 per cent.

Prime mercantile paper, 2%@5 per cent. Sterling exchange was firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.88%@4.88% for demand and at $4.87@4.87% for sixty days; posted rates, $4.88@4.88%; commercial bills, $4.865, 314.8656.

Silver certificates, 64c. Bar silver closed at 63%c per ounce; at London, 29d. The New York weekly bank statement shows the following changes:

of the requirements of the 25-per-cent, rule, Total sales of stocks Saturday amounted to only 78,841 shares. There seems to be a growing belief among the speculative fraternity that the trusts are to be treated tenderly by the tariff makers, and, consequently, the industrials are at present the favorite group of stocks of the traders for a rise. It is confidently asserted that refined sugar is to be fully protected, that the bonded period is to be fixed to sult the distillers and that the duty on lead is to be increased 1/2c per lb. The trading on the Stock Exchange was mainly in Sugar, Lead, Distilling and Chicago Gas, with only small trading in the railway list, chiefy in St. Paul, Burlington & Quincy and Reading. Sugar monopolized almost onehalf of the transactions, and was in good buying demand, making an advance of 31/2 per cent., to 104%, and closing within % per cent, of the highest price touched. The preferred stock made a gain of h per tent. Lead rose % for the common and 21/2 for the preferred, closing at the top figure. Distilling fluctuated between 25 and 25%, the last sale being at 25%. Chicago Gas rose 1/2 per cent, the last being the best price of the day, American Tobacco recorded an Improvement of 1% per cent. on the day, and Gas lost 1 per cent. The trading in the railway list was dulf and uninteresting, the only changes on the day's transactions in excess of a fraction being declines of 1 per cent, in New Jersey Central and Louisville & New Albany, St Paul was sold in small lots by London houses, receding % and recovering 4. The market was in better tone in the late dealings than early in the day, and closed fairly strong. The result of the week's trading has been in the main depreciation in values. A notable exception, however, is Sugar, the common stock having made a guin of 61/2 per cent. and the preferred 3 per cent. Interior Conduit has advanced 7%. Alton & Terre Haute 7 and American District Telegraph 2 per cent. The more important declines are 15 per cent. In St. Paul, 11% in Rock Island Burlington & Quincy, 1½ General Electric, 13 Louisville & Nashville, 2 Louisville & New Albany, 2% Union Pacific, 336 National Starch preferred, 36 Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, 44 Chicago Gas and 41/2 American Express. The bond market was generally heavy, and closed easier in tone. Louisville &

Rubber preferred 1 per cent. Consolidated

New Albany firsts and Erie each gained 2 per cent.: Kansas Pacific consols, 1%; Union Pacific. Denver & Gulf firsts. 11/2. Government bonds were firm. State bonds The following table, prepared by James E. Berry, Room 16, Board of Trade, shows the LOCAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE. Best Week's Trade of the Year in

Some Lines. As has been anticipated, a week of summerlike weather gave new stimulus to trade. By this it need not be inferred that the volume of business of last year was reached, as in most lines April will drop Leather-Oak sole, 28@38c; hemlock sole, considerably behind last year. The steady | 226 28c; harness, 266 38c; skirting, 316 32c;

tone to prices is a noticeable feature. In staple groceries not a change of imbortance has been made in two months. Sugars have varied 1-16c in that time. Coffees are unchanged. Better demand for canned goods improved prices a little. Dry goods houses had a busy week. They are carrying large stocks, and to sell good bills do not show an unwillingness to make concessions. On Commission row, take the week through, the volume of trade was very satisfactory. On Friday business was Vegetables of all kinds have sold well. Poultry and egg markets were in better shape at the close of the week than on Monday. Provisions are active and there is a possibility of an advance in prices. The wool market is beginning to attract some attention. Dealers say prices for wool will be low and disappointing to wool grow-

IS NEW ORLEANS SINKING? Col. Corthell Says There Can Be No Possible Doubt of It. New York Sun.

Will New Orleans soon be out of sight? Not soon as one counts time when waiting for a street car, but soon, and very soon, as geologists measure time. That is the assertion made by an eminent engineer, one who is particularly fitted by study and practical experience to speak of the operations of the earth's surface in and about New Orleans. The engineer is Col. J. L. Corthell, who was one of Eads's assistants in the construction of the Mississippi jetties, and is still connected with the government engineering work at the delta. Colonel Corthell is also the engineer of the $5,000,000 bridge across the Mississippi which the Southern Pacific and Illinois Central railroads are preparing to build near New Orleans. He has therefore been required recently to make extended scientinc study of the nature of the earth's surface there in determining the character and extent of the foundations which must be built for the great bridge piers he is about to construct. Therefore New Orleans is not disposed to joke about Colonel Corthell's statement that New Orleans is sinking and the country thereabout is sinking, and that that is the explanation, at least in part, of the frequent floods over the delta country rather than the rising of the great river. He does not leave the question open for argument in his form of stating the startling fact. He assumes it to be admitted by men of science who have investigated the phenomenon, and the cause and extent are the only points left to be discussed. In a recent interview with him printed in the New Orleans Picayune Colonel Corthell is reported as saying: "Did you know that there is a move on foot among eminent engineers of the country to have an investigation made into the delta country, with a view to ascertaining how much sinking there has been during the last thirty years? It is a well-demonstrated fact that the entire delta country is gradually sinking. From a number of bench marks made by surveyors years ago on trees, etc., on the gulf coast, and a comparison of the mean level of the gulf now with what it was twenty years ago, in connection with the present bench marks. the fact has developed that the delta coast has sunken at least a foot in the past thirty or forty years. There is no doubt the city of New Orelans is some six inches lower down in the world now than it was forty years ago. The intention of these engineers is to ascertain the exact sinking of the earth, and to invstigate the causes which have produced it."

"What is your opinion of the causes?" asked the reporter. "Well, that is a big question, and one which cannot be answered in a short time and in a few words. The old theory of he mud ball, which was advanced by som eminent engineer as to the cause, might be correct. To illustrate, take a heavy stone and roll it over a large piece of soft mud. The result is that here is a depression of the mud and a tendency to flatten out on the sides. In the immense force of the waters of the Mississippi river! rolling constantly onward to the sea, you have your stone weight, which, exerting a tremendous force, has a tendency to compress the earth, thus causing a sinking of it. This theory, however, is only one of the many hundreds which are advanced by engeneers. I have a number of theories for the sinking, as have all engineers, but none of them will bear investigation, so it is made and the question settled." The Picayune comments thus: The information given by Mr. Corthell that the city of New Orleans is now sinking at the rate of six inches every forty years is not very encouraging to the many thousands of inhabitants. Coming, however, as it does, from an engineer known all over the world, and one who speaks scientifically, there must be some credence placed in the statement.

The reporter asked Colonel Corthell concerning an allied phenomenon which is causing New Orleans anxiety. There have been reports recently of the presence of a bank off the mouth of the jettles, and concerning this the engineer is reported to "It is not the right thing, perhaps, for me to say this is all a fairy story, for I have not the facts in my possession. From the standpoint, however, of an engineer, I am of the opinion that there is nothing whatever in the statement. That is to say, I cannot think the bank referred to is produced by the jetties, or by the deposits of earth passing through them. The tendency of all the soil deposits passing through the jetties proper of the south pass is to drift to leeward. This bank, I understand, is to windward, so to speak, to the right of the natural flow of water, and hence I am inclined to think that if there is a bank there at all it has been formed by deposits from the passes on the right, from southwest pass, and from Pass a l'Outre. "Another thing about it which leads me to disbelieve the story is that no more deposit passes through the main pass now than prior to the building of the jetties. Not a drop more water passes through the pass now than before the building of the jettles. Hence there is no reason for believing that, even if there is a bank formed, the material from which it has been formed found outlet through the jetties. But aside from all this, I remember about the time the building of the jettles was first mentioned that the story of a bank existing some ten miles out to the right of the present mouth of the jettles was mentioned, Some old sea captain found it there and reported it. Since that time several attempts have been made, and efforts were made at the time, to discover it, but all proved fruitless. The bank may exist there, and I have no doubt that it does, but being ten

> Wheat Goes Off a Fraction, Corn and Oats Dull and Provisions All Show a Decline.

> CHICAGO, April 28.-Speculation was in a waiting mood to-day in the wheat market. Compared with closing prices of the day before there was 4c decline. Corn was limp, and lost 1/2 of its previous values. Provisions could not stand the amount of short selling done and closed lower.

The trading in May wheat was relegated to a secondary position, such business as was done in it being confined entirely to buying in or selling out of previous contracts. The market was without feature, and the fluctuations were limited to 4c in both May and July. Dullness was again coupled with weakness in the corn pit. The most favorable weather conditions prevailing, together with prospect of increasing receipts, caused the weakness. Scarcity of new business and the declination of traders accounted for the duliness. The lowest point of the day prevailed at the close. The weakness in other markets influenced oats to some extent. Hess took quite a fair amount of May, as well as July. Bids for the latter month were free during most of the session and comparatively steady feeling existed, showing a net decline of only 1/4c at the close, while the other deliv-labor troubles. Compared with yesterday's closing quotations losses are shown of from 121/2c to 15c in pork, .05c in lard and from .10c to .121/c in ribs. Estimated receipts for Monday are: Wheat, 112 cars; corn, 450 cars; oats, 350 cars; hogs, 24,000. Business with the lake lines was fair. An advance of 1/2c was paid for two small loads of wheat, the line boats getting 1%c to 2c for Buffalo. The close was at 11/2/01% for wheat and 11/2c for corn. Leading futures ranged as fol-

16 to 161/2 hands, good to extra, 4 to SOME RELIGIOUS REVIVALISTS. Differing Methods of Moody, Mills, Harrison and Sam Jones.

New York Sun. The traveling revivalist employs tricks as well as the more worldly tradesman. To be successful he must know how to convert the most people in the briefest time: that is, to bring the multitudes to the repentant sinner's scat and to keep them there. The success is in part due to the persuasive power of the orator, but it is also true that many of the most successful evangelists are not orators. They reach the people in different ways. Sam Jones brings out audiences because they expect to hear quaint, original and funny sayings. They go to hear Thomas Harrison, the boy evangelist, because they look for the unexpected at his meetings. A prominent Brooklyn preacher told a Sun reporter the other day that Harrison is ready to do anything, even to jumping over the seats and dragging sinners forward by their hair. Jones and Harrison reach a class of people that are cold and indifferent to such revivalists as Dwight L. Moody, B. Fay Mills, J. Wilbur Chapman, Charles H. Yatman, George C. Needham, Major Whittle and others. The methods of these men are also quite different. Mr. Moody still ranks far ahead of the others, and at the age of fifty-seven years he is as active and hearty as when he made his first successful tour through the country with Ira L. Sankey. It is said that he has less culture than the other revivalists. He is not a great preacher, and people who hear him for the first time 'are sure to be disappointed. He lacks the graces and arts of the orator, and his vocabulary is confined to narrow limits. The secret of his success is his personal magnetism, which always appears to best advantage in the inquiry room. There he comes into personal contact with his listeners. He shakes their hands, talks to them with a sense of conviction that is most effective, and shows a personal interest that never fails to produce great re-But this is not all. Mr. Moody is gifted with a sound practical sense, and shows a mastership of details that would have made a fortune for him in the business world. He is the friend of the bill board man and the newspaper publisher. The coming of "Dwight L. Moody, the Greatest of all Evangelists," is announced in big letters on three-sheet bills days before he arrives. Upon his arrival Mr. Moody travels about the town precisely as a theatrical manager might to see that the attraction has been properly billed. Moody also gives his personal attention to such details as the seating of the congregation, the ventilation of the room, the collection and others. His greatest assistance comes from the choir, which is always made as large as possible. He does not care so much for the singing as for the personal assistance of the singers in the inquiry room. at Washington there were 1.400 people in Mr. Moody's choir, and there was never a meeting at which less than 1,000 of the choir were present. More than forty churches were represented of all denominations in

The Rev. B. Fay Mills, who will preach in the Brooklyn Tabernacle during the absence of Dr. Talmage, is an evangelist of another class. He talks cold logic to his hearers. He seeks to convert them by the cold, businesslike argument that they can enter into a life of everlasting happiness by becoming Christians, or go to hell by continuing on their way. He is a masterly reasoner; he convinces his audience by assembling only facts, deductions and conclusions for their study. He never seeks to turn sinners by arousing their emotions, and it is doubtful if he would succeed in that way if he tried. He is remarkably successful in his own line of working and his services are in great demand. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, next to Moody, is probably the most successful of the revivalists who work through the emotions. Charles H. Yatman is close to him, and others, like George C. Needham, Major Whittle and A. C. Dixon, have made great records. Needham, too, has his own methods. He converts people by Bible readings, from which he draws everyday lessons of practical life. He is an Irishman, and attracts and entertains audiences by his keen and quaint wit. Evangelists are never hired for stipulated sums. They are paid by collections. Men like Moody, Mills and Chapman receive from $200 to $500 a week; the others receive from $50 to $100. Moody has made a fortune, but has spent it in founding four fine schools for girls. Major Whittle has a fortune, and the others are popularly supposed to be well to do. Few have open dates for a year ahead. Not long ago the Evangelical Alliance of Brooklyn wanted to engage Dr. Chapman for a series of meetings next winter. He wrote that his

"I had just got off a train and was ragged, hungry and penniless. 'I see lots of such. "No doubt you do, and if you are as kind to them as you were to me heaven will surely reward you. I came in here from the depot. I was dying for something to eat, but not one blessed penny had I in my pockets." "Yes, I know." "I stated my case to a walter and he ordered me out. I went out but returned Your kind and fatherly face attracted my attention, and with my heart beating tu-multuously I stepped forward and stated my circumstances. You told me to sit down and eat my fill. Aye! with your own hands you filled my plate again and again with the very choicest of your viands. The bill was 70 cents. You told me to pay it when I could, and when I went out you gave me your hand and wished me God-"Yes, I know," growled the cashler. "I went away vowing that I would pay that debt if I lived, and thereby prove to you that all human hearts had not lost the feeling of gratitude. I am here. have come from Montana on purpose to pay that debt and give vent to my feelings. Sir, I-"That will do," said the cashier, as h raised his finger. "What do you mean?" "No more talk, but skip right out." "But I want to discharge my debt of gratitude. "Discharge nothing. You have made mistake. I remember you now. I am the man who booted you clear across the street, while you filled up at a restaurant above. The man failed the next day and

"But, sir, I cannot-" "Oh, yes, you can. If you don't skip I'll crack your cocoanut with this club." After the grateful man had departed I asked the cashier why he had been so brusque with him. "Why, that game is ten years old," laughed. "The fellow had a bogus bank check for me to cash, and he figured on making $10 or $15. After being stuck three or four times you'll get right on to the 'fatherly kindness' and 'human gratitude' business. Cost me about $100 to learn all the tricks, but I've got 'em on the toe o my boot now. Pish! That fellow didn't do half as well as some others who have been in here this week.'

PIANOS GET SICK. Lack of Exercise or Too Much Work Will Throw Them Off.

Boston Post. "Sometimes a piano gets sick," said an expert tuner to a Post man. "This weather seems to give them the grip. Pianos, you know, have feelings the same as anybody Didn't you know that? Well, they have This piano I have just doctored was not so much out of tune as it was sick-run down. It had caught cold from a change of temperature. There has been a sort of ep idemic lately, and ever so many planos have had to take treatment. There are two other complaints common with pianos: One is a lack of exercise, and the other is overwork. "About how much exercise should a piano

"In most cases from one to two hours a day to keep it in the best of health. More than two hours a day slowly saps a piano of its vital energy. Another thing about a piano is that it has to breathe. This fashion of smothering a plane in clothesmean draperies and such things hanging down their backs-isn't any better for than to jam it close up against the wall. A piano should stand two or three inches out from a wall, so that it can get plenty of air. How can a plane be expected to be reasonable, I'd like to know, if it isn't treated like one of the family, and if it isn't attended to when it complains "Why isn't plano tuning just the business for women?" the music physician was "Well," he replied thoughtfully, "so far as the hours and the physical labor are concerned the business is just the thing for women, but, although they have the ear, somehow they don't catch the science of it or the spirit of it. They don't seem to get into sympathy with a piano. I suppose

"Am I superstitious? Not for some years now," observed the old sport, as he up tilted the glass. "Why, haven't I ever told you of that great tip I got once out at St Louis? I got up one morning resolved to play the nags and play them strong. I got a racing card and studied the entries carefully. I didn't know anything about pedigrees, for my lay was the green cloth. just determined the game was nothing but guessing the winner, and I wasn't going to allow anybody to fool me with any lead-pipe cinches; I'd guess myself. "Well, sir, I walked out on the street and kept running the names of those horses through my hand. Block and block walked. Every once in a while I would look up to see about where I was. Blame me, if every time I took my latitude if I wasn't just passing an undertaking establishment. Finally I stopped to go back to the hotel, and what do you suppose was in the vacant lot on that corner? A tombstone factory. The matter fastened itself on my mind; it haunted me; I felt clammy and "I pulled out the card and read among the entries 'C. K. Coffin's ch. g. Old Mortu-
